

2. WRIST CHARGER

One of the best parts of road trips is quality time playing our favorite handheld games. (This is, of course, why you insist someone else drives the vehicle.) But the problem with long road trips is that you often exhaust the battery life of your gaming system before the point on the road trip where you really, really need it. The Wrist Charger straps comfortably to your wrist and plugs in to just about any electronic device you like. It'll power cell phones, mp3 players, gaming systems, or any device compatible with mini USB.

When you reach your destination, simply plug your bracer in and charge its battery back-up so you're ready with plenty of entertainment for the long trip home.
